EX30F-CA:

During 2012, Joe had total trading proceeds over $ 20 million and total round-trip trades of over 1,000 per review of the TradeLog MTM reports. Trading was Joe's only occupation and source of livelihood in 2012. Joe qualifies as a "trader in securities" (i.e., he has trader tax status), so he reports all his trading business expenses on Schedule C (Business Profit and Loss). Notice there is no limitation on these ordinary trading expenses. In order to deduct home-office expenses and Section 179 depreciation expenses, Joe transferred trading gains from the Schedule D to Schedule C to have them result in zero net income or loss. This is because home-office and Section 179 depreciations are only deductible to the extent you have business income. This transfer is discussed in the tax return footnote. Without a transfer, Joe would carry over these expenses to the following tax year, or choose normal depreciation. Trader tax status alone (even without MTM) saves Joe a significant amount of taxes because of the Schedule C deductions.

Note to Schedules C, Schedule D and Form 8949 in connection with taxpayer's business activity: "trader in securities"

Taxpayer operated a trading business, in accordance with the definition below, for the entire year 2012. Considerable time spent every trading day, consistent and frequent number of trades, and trading proceeds all support taxpayer's rising to the level of conducting this activity as a business.

Taxpayer's business activities are described in IRS Publication 550, Chapter 4 - Special Rules for Traders in Securities. We excerpt these rules below (and add some notes in parentheses).

Special Rules for Traders in Securities.

Special rules apply if you are a trader in securities in the business of buying and selling securities for your own account. To be engaged in business as a trader in securities, you must meet all the following conditions. (Taxpayer met all the following conditions for tax year 2012).

..You must seek to profit from daily market movements in the prices of securities and not from dividends, interest, or capital appreciation.

..Your activity must be substantial.

..You must carry on the activity with continuity and regularity.

The following facts and circumstances should be considered in determining if your activity is a securities trading business.

..Typical holding periods for securities bought and sold. (Taxpayer had very short holding periods).

..The frequency and dollar amount of your trades during the year. (Taxpayer traded frequently with lower dollar amounts - high turnover).

..The extent to which you pursue the activity to produce income for a livelihood. (Taxpayer's intention is to earn a living from this trading business activity).

..The amount of time you devote to the activity. (Taxpayer spends a good part of every day on this activity).

Note.

You may be a trader in some securities and have other securities you hold for investment. The special rules discussed here do not apply to the securities held for investment. You must keep detailed records to distinguish the securities. The securities held for investment must be identified as such in your records on the day you got them (for example, by holding them in a separate brokerage account). (If taxpayer has investment securities they are clearly "segregated" from his trading securities in accordance with current IRS regulations).

How To Report.

Transactions from trading activities result in capital gains and losses and must be reported on Schedule D and Form 8949 (Form 1040). Losses from these transactions are subject to the limit on capital losses explained earlier in this chapter.

Expenses.

Interest expense and other investment expenses that an investor would deduct on Schedule A (Form 1040) are deducted by a trader on Schedule C (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Business, if the expenses are from the trading business. Commissions and other costs of acquiring or disposing of securities are not deductible but must be used to figure gain or loss. The limit on investment interest expense, which applies to investors, does not apply to interest paid or incurred in a trading business. (Taxpayer duly reported his trading business expenses on Schedule C: trader in securities).

Self-employment tax.

Gains and losses from selling securities as part of a trading business are not subject to self-employment tax. This is true whether the election is made or not.

SUMMARY

Taxpayer qualifies as a trader in securities for 2012 and he did not elect mark-to-market accounting for tax year 2012. Taxpayer's trading business expenses are reported on Schedule C and his trading gains and losses are reported on Schedule D and Form 8949. Taxpayer is not subject to self-employment taxes on this trading activity.

SPECIAL NOTES

If Taxpayer has net trading gains, sufficient trading gains are transferred from Schedule D and Form 8949 to Schedule C to cover Taxpayer's related trading business expenses. This is done since Schedule C business expenses relate to taxpayer's trading gains. There is no change to the tax liability as a result of this transfer.

IMPORTANT: In most cases, the Franchise Tax Board (FTB) can figure the penalty for you and you do not have to complete this form. See General Information B.

If you meet any of the following conditions, you do not owe a penalty for underpayment of estimated tax. Do not complete or file this form if:

- The amount of your tax liability (not including tax on lump-sum distributions) less credits (including the withholding credit) but not including estimated tax payments for either 2011 or 2012 was less than $500 (or less than $250 if married/RDP filing a separate return).
- Your 2011 return was for a full 12 months (or would have been if you were required to file) and you did not have any tax liability on that return.
- The amount of your withholding plus your estimated tax payments, if paid in the required installments, is at least 90% of the tax shown on your 2012 return or 100% of the tax shown on your 2011 return (110% if California adjusted gross income (AGI) was more than $150,000 or $75,000 if married/RDP filing a separate return) and you are not using the annualized income installment method. Taxpayers with California AGI equal to or greater than $1,000,000 (or $500,000 if married/RDP filing a separate return), must use the tax shown on their 2011 tax return if they do not meet one of the two conditions above.
